0.T	contreplat + 1+ 2 f.	12-			- front inside cover plus one paper folio that may or may not have been bound with the manuscript and one clearly external bifolium with a hand written manuscript description by R.C. Gregory in French (dated 7 March 1885) has been photographed in the beginning of the microfilm. - the VMR reproduction seems to be complete in the beginning but appears to be missing at least an image of the verso of the empty folio 308.

external bifolium	Annotationes	Annotatio anagraphica lectoris					19	1885	- the manuscript description has been written in Gregory's own hand; it is dated 8 March 1885 and sums up his work with the manuscript around that time; - the description consists of two parts; the first part gives a summary of the manuscript's metadata in a formalized and highly abbreviated Latin that was later used in his manuscript catalogue; the second part consists of a discussion of additional features of the script and the decoration as well as of some textual peculiarities; it is written in French; - unfortunately Gregory's page count and table of content for the manuscript differ slightly from what I was able to count and verify; - since the manuscript contains neither foliation nor pagination, Gregory's numbers and mine are not in sync.

00front pasteboard	Annotationes	Annotatio anographica possessoris					19	1841	on the front pasteboard a note in Latin dated to the year 1841 is visible; this note makes reference to a catalogue (page 25) and an auction (presumably on which the item has been sold) and a sum of money ("f 160"); there is also a name that I cannot read properly (V. Cl. ?).

091	Subscriptiones librorum biblicorum	In Matth.: von Soden p. 297-299 [40]-[58]					12		This is a curious conflation! It is expected to read the subscription to Matthew, but it starts out as the one for Mark's Gospel and then gives the tradition concerning Matthew's Gospel. Perhaps the confusion arose due to the fact that the subscription started on a new page and is followed by a hypothesis to Mark.
